CENSUS BULLETIN.

No. 40.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 23, 1901.

POPULATION OF NORTH DAKOTA BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of North Dakota by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Dakota was organized as a territory March 2, 1861, but on November 2, 1889, the territory was divided into the states of North and South Dakota. Table 1 shows the population of North Dakota at the censuses of 1890 and 1900, and the approximate population of the present area of the state at the censuses of 1870 and 1880.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF NORTH DAKOTA: 1860 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900.....	319,146	186,427	74.7
1890.....	182,719	145,810	395.1

1870.....	12,405
1860.....	24,887

¹Approximate population of present area of North Dakota.

²Dakota territory.

The population of the state in 1900 is 319,146 as compared with a population in 1890 of 182,719, showing an increase during the last ten years of 186,427, or 74.7 per cent. A small portion of this increase is due to the fact that there were 7,980 Indians and 284 other persons, or a total of 8,264 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in North Dakota, who were specially enumerated in 1890 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the state at that census. That part of the territory of Dakota which now constitutes the state of North Dakota had an approximate population in 1870 of 2,405, and in 1880 of 36,909, the increase from 1870 to 1880 having been 34,504, or 1,434.7 per cent, and from 1880 to 1890, 145,810, or 395.1 per cent.

The population of North Dakota in 1900 is nearly nine times as large as that given for 1880.

The total land surface of North Dakota is, approximately, 70,195 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 2.6; 1900, 4.5.

Table 2 shows the population of North Dakota by counties at each census from 1870 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

CENSUS BULLETIN.

No. 41.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 28, 1901.

POPULATION OF OHIO BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Ohio by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Ohio was organized as a state November 29, 1802. Table 1 shows the population of Ohio at each census from 1800 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF OHIO: 1800 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900.....	4,157,545	485,229	13.2
1890.....	3,672,316	474,254	14.8
1880.....	3,198,062	532,802	20.0
1870.....	2,665,260	325,749	18.9
1860.....	2,339,511	359,182	18.1
1850.....	1,980,329	460,862	30.3
1840.....	1,519,467	581,564	62.0
1830.....	987,903	356,608	61.3
1820.....	681,295	350,585	151.9
1810.....	280,760	185,895	408.7
1800.....	45,865

The population of the state in 1900 is 4,157,545 as compared with the population in 1890 of 3,672,316, representing an increase during the last ten years of 485,229, or 13.2 per cent. This rate of increase is slightly less than that for the decade immediately preceding, when it was 14.8 per cent, although the numerical increase is somewhat greater. During the earlier decades of the century the state increased in population rapidly, but the greatest numerical increase (581,564) occurred in the decade from 1830 to 1840. Since 1850 the development of the state in population has been comparatively steady.

The population of Ohio in 1900 is more than ninety-one times as large as that given for 1800, the census taken two years before it became a state.

The total land surface of Ohio is, approximately, 40,760 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 90.1; 1900, 102.0.

Table 2 shows the population of Ohio by counties at each census from 1800 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

Of the above named 709 incorporated places there are 143 that have a population in 1900 of more than 2,000, and of these 72 have a population of less than 5,000; 43 have more than 5,000 but less than 10,000; 16 have more than 10,000 but less than 20,000; 3 have more than 20,000 but less than 25,000; and 9 have more than 25,000, namely, Cleveland, with 381,768; Cincinnati, with 325,902; Toledo, with 131,822; Columbus, with 125,560; Dayton, with 85,333; Youngstown, with 44,885; Akron, with 42,728; Springfield, with 38,253; and Canton, with 30,667 inhabitants.

For the 9 cities which have a population in 1900 of more than 25,000, table 6 shows the population of each from the first year in which it was separately stated in the census report, to 1900, inclusive. Table 7, which immediately follows, shows, for each city, the increase (or decrease) in population by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

¹ Decrease.

All of the above named cities have received marked accessions to their population during the last ten years, those having increased by the largest percentages being Toledo, 61.9 per cent; Akron, 54.8 per cent; Cleveland, 46.1 per cent; and Columbus, 42.4 per cent. The largest numerical gains during the decade are found in Cleveland, Toledo, and Columbus. With a single exception in one early decade each of these cities has increased in population steadily, but the rate of growth has been irregular and has shown no uniform trend of change. For Cincinnati, Cleveland, and Springfield, however, that rate since 1870 has steadily declined, a change in harmony with the usual tendency of large urban centers.

CENSUS BULLETIN.

No. 42.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 28, 1901.

POPULATION OF OKLAHOMA BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Oklahoma by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Oklahoma was organized as a territory May 2, 1890. Table 1 shows the population of Oklahoma at the censuses of 1890 and 1900, together with the increase by number and per cent during the decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF OKLAHOMA: 1890 AND 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900.....	398,331	336,497	544.2
1890.....	61,834

The population of the territory in 1900 is 398,331 as compared with a population in 1890 of 61,834, representing an increase during the decade of 336,497, or 544.2 per cent. A part of this increase is due to the fact that there were 13,167 Indians and 3,474 other persons, or a total of 16,641 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in Oklahoma, who were specially enumerated in 1890 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the territory at that census.

The population of Oklahoma in 1900 is more than six times as large as the population given for 1890, the first census taken after its organization as a territory.

The total land surface of Oklahoma is, approximately, 38,830 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 1.6; 1900, 10.3.

Table 2 shows the population of Oklahoma by counties at the censuses of 1890 and 1900, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase by number and per cent since 1890.

Returned as a part of Oklahoma in 1890. Decided by the United States Supreme Court, March 16, 1896, against the state of Texas.³ Can not be located by counties.

There are 23 counties in Oklahoma in 1900, 15 of which have been organized from Indian lands since 1890 and do not appear in the census report of that year. The remaining 8 counties, for which the population was given in the report of 1890, were also organized from Indian lands subsequent to the census enumeration of 1890, but their boundaries were defined and the population, as originally enumerated by townships, was distributed to each before the census report of that year was completed.

The county of Greer was organized in 1860 as a county of Texas, but a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States rendered in 1896 has declared that the territory embraced in this county was originally part of the Indian Territory and not of Texas, and consequently, that it is now a county of Oklahoma. That part of the territory not organized into counties is occupied by four Indian reservations.

Table 4 shows the population of Oklahoma by minor civil divisions, so far as it was separately returned at the censuses of 1890 and 1900.

CENSUS BULLETIN.

No. 43.

WASHINGTON, D. C.

January 28, 1901.

POPULATION OF OREGON BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Oregon by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Oregon was organized as a territory August 14, 1848, and admitted as a state February 14, 1859. Table 1 shows the population of Oregon at each census from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF OREGON: 1850 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900	418,536	99,769	31.8
1890	313,767	138,999	79.5
1880	174,768	83,845	92.2
1870	90,923	38,458	73.3
1860	52,465	39,171	294.7
1850	13,294

The population of the state in 1900 is 418,536 as compared with a population in 1890 of 313,767, showing an increase during the last ten years of 99,769, or 31.8 per cent. A small portion of this increase is due to the fact that there were 3,713 Indians and 224 other persons, or a total of 3,937 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in Oregon, who were specially enumerated in 1890 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the state at that census. The numerical increase in the population of Oregon for the last decade, as well as the rate of increase, is less than that for the one immediately preceding, when the gain was 138,999, or 79.5 per cent. Oregon had a population of 13,294 in 1850, which increased nearly fourfold in the ensuing ten years, and for each of the three following decades there was, also, a steady gain in population. During the last decade the numerical increase declined somewhat, but it is sufficient to indicate the prosperity of the state.

The population of Oregon in 1900 is more than thirty-one times as large as the population given for 1850, the first census taken after it was organized as a territory.

The total land surface of Oregon is, approximately, 94,560 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 3.3; 1900, 4.4.

Table 2 shows the population of Oregon by counties at each census from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

Of the above named 116 incorporated places there are 12 that have a population in 1900 of more than 2,000, and of these 9 have less than 5,000. The 3 having more than 5,000 are Portland, with 90,426; Astoria, with 8,381; and Baker City, with 6,663 inhabitants.

Portland is the only city in Oregon in 1900 having a population of more than 25,000, and a summary is presented in table 6 showing its population from 1850 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

TABLE 6.—POPULATION OF PORTLAND: 1850 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900	90,426	44,041	94.9
1890	46,385	28,808	163.9
1880	17,577	9,284	111.9
1870	8,293	5,419	188.6
1860	2,874	2,053	250.1
1850	821

According to the foregoing summary, the population of Portland, beginning with 821 in 1850, increased to 2,874 in 1860, or 250.1 per cent. Since then the city has more than doubled its population in every ten years except the last, in which, although the rate of increase is slightly less than 100 per cent, the numerical increase is greater than for any preceding decade.

POPULATION OF PENNSYLVANIA BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Pennsylvania by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Pennsylvania was one of the original thirteen states. Table 1 shows the population of Pennsylvania at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

TABLE 1.—POPULATION OF PENNSYLVANIA: 1790 TO 1900.

CENSUS YEARS.	Population.	INCREASE.
		Number.	Per cent.
1900.....	6,302,115	1,044,101	19.9
1890.....	5,258,014	975,123	22.8
1880.....	4,282,891	760,940	21.6
1870.....	3,521,051	615,736	21.2
1860.....	2,906,215	594,429	25.7
1850.....	2,311,786	587,758	34.1
1840.....	1,724,083	375,800	27.9
1830.....	1,348,233	300,726	28.7
1820.....	1,047,507	237,416	29.3
1810.....	810,091	207,726	34.5
1800.....	602,365	167,992	88.7
1790.....	434,873

The population of the state in 1900 is 6,302,115 as against 5,258,014 in 1890, representing an increase of 1,044,101, or 19.9 per cent. This rate of increase is somewhat less than that for the decade immediately preceding, when it was 22.8 per cent, but the numerical gain is somewhat greater than that of ten years ago, when it was 975,123. The state had in 1790 a population of 434,873, and since then its growth in numbers has been constant and gradual rather than rapid, but at every decennial census the gain has been commensurate with the importance and resources of a great state.

The population of Pennsylvania in 1900 is more than fourteen times as large as it was at the first census, in 1790.

The total land surface of Pennsylvania is, approximately, 44,985 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 116.9; 1900, 140.1.

Table 2 shows the population of Pennsylvania by counties at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

All of these cities show a satisfactory increase during the last ten years, those having the largest percentages of gain being Newcastle, 144.3 per cent; Easton, 74.3 per cent; Chester, 68.0 per cent; McKeesport, 65.0 per cent; Johnstown, 64.8 per cent; and York, 62.1 per cent. It is also noticeable that all these cities have had a continuous and vigorous growth for a series of decades. The rate of increase for Philadelphia is 28.6 per cent, which is identical with the decade immediately preceding. Pittsburg shows a numerical increase in 1900 of 82,999 as against 82,228 in 1890. Chester, Easton, Johnstown, McKeesport, and York have gained more during the last ten years than in any preceding decade, while Scranton, although showing a material growth, has gained less than in the previous decade.

POPULATION OF RHODE ISLAND BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of Rhode Island by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Rhode Island was one of the original thirteen states. Table 1 shows the population of Rhode Island at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase by number and per cent during each decade.

The population of the state in 1900 is 428,556 as compared with a population in 1890 of 345,506, representing an increase since 1890 of 83,050, or 24.0 per cent. A noticeable feature of the census record of Rhode Island is that the population has increased in substantially the same ratio for four succeeding decades. For the first half of the century the growth of the state, as indicated by census returns, was by relatively small and fluctuating ratios, but for the latter half, the increase has been considerable for each succeeding decade.

The population of Rhode Island in 1900 is more than six times as large as the population for 1790, when the first census of the state was taken.

The total land surface of Rhode Island is, approximately, 1,053 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 328.1; 1900, 407.0.

Table 2 shows the population of Rhode Island by counties at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

There are 5 incorporated cities in Rhode Island, for which the population in 1900 is separately returned, and these incorporated places are presented in table 5 in alphabetical order, being abstracted from table 4, in which they are presented in detail under the counties in which they are severally situated.

Of the above named 5 incorporated places there are 2 that have less than 25,000 inhabitants, namely, Newport, with 22,034, and Central Falls, with 18,167; and 3 that have more than 25,000, namely, Providence, with 175,597; Pawtucket, with 39,281; and Woonsocket, with 28,204 inhabitants. Table 6 shows the population of the cities having more than 25,000 inhabitants at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, so far as it is separately stated in the census reports, together with the increase by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

All of the above named cities have received material accessions to their population during the last ten years, and it is observed that the census history of each is marked by a continuous and vigorous growth. Providence was first enumerated in 1790, when it had a population of 6,380. After a growth of one hundred years the population in 1890 was 132,146, which became 175,597 in 1900, representing an increase during the last decade of 43,451, or 32.9 per cent as against an increase of 26.0 per cent for the decade immediately preceding. More than one-third of the present population of the state is within the boundaries of this city. Pawtucket was first reported separately in 1830, with a population of 1,459, which has increased to 39,281 in 1900, the rate of increase for the last decade being 42.0 per cent as against 45.2 per cent for the preceding decade. Woonsocket made its first appearance as a city in the census of 1870, with a population of 11,627. This has increased to 28,204 in 1900, the gain during the last decade being 35.4 per cent as compared with a gain of 29.8 per cent for the ten years from 1880 to 1890.

1790.....	249,073

The population of the state in 1900 is 1,340,316 as compared with a population in 1890 of 1,151,149, representing an increase since 1890 of 189,167, or 16.4 per cent. This rate of increase is slightly more than that for the decade immediately preceding, when it was 15.6 per cent, but both these ratios are small when compared with that for the decade from 1870 to 1880, when it was 41.1 per cent, the greatest gain during any decade of the state's history. The population of this state has never increased rapidly, and for several decades, noticeably that from 1860 to 1870, the gain was very slight.

The population of South Carolina in 1900 is somewhat more than five times as large as that given for 1790.

The total land surface of South Carolina is, approximately, 30,170 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 38.2; 1900, 44.4.

Table 2 shows the population of South Carolina by counties at each census from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

The following territorial changes in the counties of South Carolina have been made since 1890: Bamberg organized from part of Barnwell in 1897; Cherokee organized from parts of Spartanburg, Union, and York in 1897; Dorchester organized from parts of Berkeley and Colleton in 1897; Greenwood organized from parts of Abbeville and Edgefield in 1897; Saluda organized from part of Edgefield in 1896; part of Berkeley annexed to Charleston; and part of Darlington annexed to Florence.

Of the 40 counties in the state 5 have been organized since 1890 and all but 5 have increased in population during the decade, the counties showing the largest percentages of gain being Charleston, 46.9 per cent; Anderson, 27.5 per cent; Oconee, 26.5 per cent; Richland, 23.8 per cent; Lexington, 22.9 per cent; and Aiken, 22.7 per cent.

The 5 counties showing a decrease in population are Abbeville, Barnwell, Berkeley, Colleton, and Edgefield. These counties also suffered losses in territory, withdrawn to form other counties.

Table 4 shows the population of South Carolina by minor civil divisions, so far as it was separately returned at the censuses of 1890 and 1900.

Of the above named 202 incorporated places there are 24 which have more than 2,000 inhabitants, and of these 16 have less than 5,000, and 4 have more than 10,000, namely, Charleston, with 55,807; Columbia, with 21,108; Greenville, with 11,860; and Spartanburg, with 11,395 inhabitants.

Charleston is the only city in South Carolina that has a population in 1900 of more than 25,000, and for this city a summary is presented in table 6, showing its population from 1790 to 1900, inclusive, together with the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during each of the ten-year periods.

¹ Decrease.

According to this summary Charleston has a population in 1900 of 55,807, as against 54,955 in 1890, representing an increase during the decade of 852, or 1.6 per cent. The censuses of 1820, 1840, 1860, and 1880 show either a loss or a very slight gain, while the alternate censuses of 1830, 1850, and 1870 show a relatively large gain. From 1830 to 1840 the population of the city decreased 3.4 per cent, but in the next decade it increased 46.9 per cent. Likewise from 1850 to 1860 there was a loss in population of 5.7 per cent, but in the next decade a gain of 20.8 per cent; in subsequent decades differences appear, though in less degree. The population of the city in 1790 was 16,359, and it has since then increased more than three fold.

POPULATION OF SOUTH DAKOTA BY COUNTIES AND MINOR CIVIL DIVISIONS.

This bulletin, prepared under the direction of Mr. WILLIAM C. HUNT, chief statistician for population, gives the aggregate population of South Dakota by counties and minor civil divisions, according to the official count of the returns of the Twelfth Census, taken as of June 1, 1900.

Dakota was organized as a territory March 2, 1861, and was divided into the states of North and South Dakota November 2, 1889. Table 1 shows the population of South Dakota at the censuses of 1890 and 1900, with the approximate population of the present area of the state at the censuses of 1870 and 1880.

² Dakota territory.

The population of the state in 1900 is 401,570 as compared with a population in 1890 of 328,808, representing an increase during the decade of 72,762, or 22.1 per cent. A part of this increase is due to the fact that there were 19,072 Indians and 720 other persons, or a total of 19,792 persons, on Indian reservations, etc., in South Dakota, who were specially enumerated in 1890 under the provisions of the census act, but were not included in the general population of the state at that census. The population of Dakota territory, from which the states of North Dakota and South Dakota were formed in 1889, was only 4,887 in 1860. In 1870 the population of that part of the territory which subsequently became the state of South Dakota was 11,776, and in 1880, 98,268, showing an increase for the decade of 86,492, or 734.5 per cent. Ten years later, at the census of 1890, the population of the state was found to be 328,808, representing an increase during the decade of 230,540, or 234.6 per cent. The growth of the state in population during the last decade has been normal.

The total land surface of South Dakota is, approximately, 76,850 square miles, the average number of persons to the square mile at the censuses of 1890 and 1900 being as follows: 1890, 4.3; 1900, 5.2.

Table 2 shows the population of South Dakota by counties at each census from 1870 to 1900, inclusive, while table 3, which immediately follows, shows, for each county, the increase (or decrease) by number and per cent during the ten years from 1890 to 1900.

¹Decrease.

The following territorial changes in the counties of South Dakota have been made since 1890: Chouteau, Ewing, Harding, Martin, Rinehart, and Wagner annexed to Butte in 1899; Todd annexed to Gregory in 1899; Jackson, Nowlin, and Sterling annexed to Stanley in 1899; Pratt and Presho annexed to Lyman in 1899; Delano and Scobey annexed to Meade in 1899; and Ziebach annexed to Pennington in 1899.

Of the 78 counties in South Dakota in 1890, 15 have since then been annexed to other counties, leaving the state divided at present into 63 counties. Of these all but 16 have increased in population during the decade, those showing the largest percentages of increase being Lyman, 1,029.6 per cent; Gregory, 649.5 per cent; Roberts, 511.7 per cent; Butte, 180.3 per cent; Charles Mix, 103.4 per cent; Buffalo, 80.3 per cent; Walworth, 78.3 per cent; Lawrence, 53.3 per cent; and Deuel, 45.5 per cent. Of the foregoing the counties of Lyman, Gregory, and Butte have also received material accessions of territory through the annexation of other counties.

The counties which have decreased in population are Armstrong, Aurora, Beadle, Brown, Brule, Custer, Fall River, Faulk, Hand, Hughes, Hyde, Jerauld, Pennington, Sanborn, Spink, and Sully.

Table 4 shows the population of South Dakota by minor civil divisions, so far as it was separately returned at the censuses of 1890 and 1900.
